2. Impacts of COVID-19 Pandemic

Owing to the outbreak of the pandemic in Europe and the US from March 2020, retailers and brands therefore cancelled or postponed their orders, textile as well as garment suppliers fell into difficulties. Moreover, the oil price was dramatically dropped during the first half of 2020. Chemical fiber companies had no choice but decreased their production volume and selling price.

- (1) Many textile mills and garment manufacturers applied for financial reliefs, according to government relief measures.
- (2) Some closed their staple yarn spinning facility in Taiwan, such as Tainan Spinning, Tah Tong, Tai Yuan, Tri-Ocean, etc.
- (3) Many dyeing companies decreased their weekly working days during Q2 2020.
- (4) Many fabric mills even decreased expenses of workers, including managerial staffs.
- (5) A number of garment manufacturers shifted their production lines to produce cloth masks and protection gowns.
- (6) Textile mills thus developed and supplied anti-bacteria fabrics to cloth mask manufacturers.
- (7) Only nonwoven fabric mills worked over time to supply to medical masks manufacturers.
